Refuse to Negotiate With Union

President Names Fact Finding Board, CIO Union Pledges Its Cooperation

DETROIT, Dec. 12—(AP)—The Ford Motor Company informed the CIO United Auto Workers today that it did not believe this was "the time" for settling their general wage problem.

"We feel that a general increase such as you propose," a Ford statement to the union said, "would amount to a very heavy mortgage on the future of all of us."

Ford gave its statement to the union on the latter's demand for a 30 per cent wage increase a few hours after President Truman had named his fact-finding board to inquire into the General Motors strike based on the same union demand.

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 12—(P)—The Ford Motor Co. of Canada, Ltd., announced today it had rejected a proposal of the United Automobile Workers of America (CIO) to negotiate and arbitrate all differences in the union security strike that shut down the huge plant Sept. 12.

The proposal of local union 200, submitted to the company last Friday, asked that arbitration to end the strike affecting 10,000 production workers be started on the union security issue and suggested that a decision be given

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 12—(P)—Facts about the threatened steel strike set by the CIO-United Steel Workers to begin January 14:

The issue — A $2-a-day increase in pay for an eight-hour work day.

Present wages — For common labor, the base pay is $6.24 a day. For the average steel worker it is estimated at $8.96 a day.

Workers — Union estimates place the number of members in the steel, aluminum and iron industries who would be made idle at above 700,000.

Plants—760 companies from coast to coast.

Number of states with producing steel plants—27, including Oklahoma and Missouri.

within 24 hours of the opening of negotiations. I also proposed that the men remain on strike while the issue was under arbitration.

In rejecting the offer, the company announced it had forwarded its views to labor minister Humphrey Mitchell Dec. 11 to allow time for the minister to receive the communication before a public announcement was made.

The company called the union proposal impracticable and added that it preferred to have the strike end while points in dispute were negotiated.

Fact Finding Board

DETROIT, Dec. 12—(P)—President Truman named a fact finding board today to inquire into the General Motors strike and the CIO's United Auto Workers union promptly pledged its cooperation with the group.

In a joint statement, President R. J. Thomas and vice president Walter P. Reuther said that "the president's fact finding committee may be assured of the union's cooperation in getting all the facts in the dispute."

"We will place before the committee all of the facts and figures in our possession relating to the corporation's ability to pay a 30 per cent wage increase."

Plan for Strike

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 12—(P)—A spokesman for the CIO-United Steelworkers of America said detailed plans for the scheduled Jan. 14 strike of 700,000 steel, aluminum and iron workers were being made at a meeting of the USW executive board today.

Strike captains were being appointed and other procedure of the unions proposed walkout in support of its $2 a day wage demand was being worked out, the spokesman said.

At a press conference, Philip Murray, president of both the CIO and the United Steelworkers, flatly denied assertions of the American Iron and Steel Institute that there would be no strike "if the CIO abides by its pledged word, given only last spring."

Truman Will Fly Home for Christmas Dinner With Mother

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—(P)—President Truman today announced he will fly to Independence, Mo., on Christmas day to have dinner with the home folks.

He told a news conference he would follow his usual custom of eating three Christmas dinners—with his mother; with his mother-in-law and with his elderly aunt. He said Mrs. Truman and their daughter Margaret will go by train to Independence Dec. 18.

GRANDVIEW, Mo., Dec. 12—(P)—The news that President Truman would spend Christmas day with them came as a surprise to the home folks today.

"I guess he hasn't had time to let us know," the president's sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman, remarked when she was read the Associated Press story from Washington announcing Truman would fly home on Christmas day.

"We'll have a Christmas dinner all right," Miss Truman added happily, "and we never need any advance notice of Harry's visits."

Miss Truman said "I know mama will be just as happy as the rest of us over the news." The president's mother recently celebrated her 93rd birthday.

Condition of Patton Good

By James F. King
HEIDELBERG, Germany, Dec. 12—(P)—The condition of Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., "remains good," an official bulletin said tonight.

Mrs. Patton, after seeing her husband again today, said she was "not the least worried." The general's neck was broken in an automobile accident Sunday.

An optimistic indication came from the departure of three top-flight surgical consultants from Heidelberg.

Mrs. Patton released this statement through U. S. Seventh Army headquarters:

"I am very happy to be here with my husband. Now that I have seen and talked with him, I am not the least worried. He looks very well. His care here at Seventh Army hospital has been of the finest and I thank everybody from the bottom of my heart."

The latest medical bulletin was the first to use the word "good" in describing Patton's condition. A previous bulletin said he had spent a "good night," but that his condition "remains grave."

Santa Claus is Coming Friday

The Sedalia Merchants Christmas party for adults and children of the trade territory will be between 3:30 and 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon. The honor guest will be Santa Claus, who is expected to arrive in the downtown district about 3:30 o'clock.

Old Santa will be met by the bands, Smith-Cotton high school band and C. C. Hubbard high

Represent State Draft Board Members

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 12—(AP)—Gov. Phil M. Donnelly drew the name of A. R. McKee of Hillsboro, Jefferson county, out of a cut glass bowl yesterday.

McKee won a trip to Washington, D. C. to represent Missouri's draft board members who have served since October, 1940.

Each state will be represented in Washington on Jan. 21, when President Truman will present the first selective service medal and certificate to draft board members for their service during the war.

Bus Damaged, Horse Killed

A stray horse belonging to W. D. Williams, route 5, Sedalia, was killed, caused more than $500 damage to a west bound Missouri Pacific bus, and injured one passenger two miles east of Sedalia on highway 50 about 2:35 o'clock this morning. The bus driver, Herbert Knight, 5123 Bellefontaine, escaped injury.

Sergeant Fred Rodecker, of the State Highway Patrol, called to the scene, arrived a few minutes after the passengers had left and boarded a second bus which was following. Upon investigation he found the horse had walked onto the highway and the right front part of the bus struck the animal, killing it instantly.

The front part of the bus was crushed in toward the front seat in which a sailor was sitting. The name of the service man was not obtained last night, but it was said he received injuries to his legs which were not considered serious.

Mr. Knight had to release the emergency door to let the passengers get off the bus.

Two Officials at Special Session

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 12—(AP)—Just two officials attended a special session of the Missouri senate last night—Lt. Gov. Walter N. Davis and Republican Majority Leader H. R. Williams of Cassville.

The senate secretaries had carried their point in protesting against a special session on the night they had planned their Christmas party.

"A short horse—soon curried," was Williams' only comment after the curtailed session.

school band, both colorful with members in uniform.

The Sedalia police department and the American Auxiliary Police will be there to direct traffic and look after the little ones should they get lost, and stray away from the adults. The officers will also direct the crowds and traffic.

Santa will have a gift for each child, which he will give them in front of the court house.

Brown Dashes To Freedom, Not for Long

Tells Deputy Sheriff to 'Shoot Straight'

"Shoot straight," Roy Brown charged with car theft, shouted at Deputy Sheriff Ernest Beyer as he made a dash for freedom about 4:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in front of the county jail. But Deputy Beyer didn't have a gun to shoot and anyway it would have been dangerous to have shot at the youth with so many pedestrians in the vicinity. Brown's freedom was not for long as he was apprehended about 11:45 o'clock Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. L. Paxton, 200 East 24th street.

Beyer had taken Brown to the court house where Prosecuting Attorney L. J. Harned had questioned him and with his prisoner was just starting into the front gate of the jail yard when he looked over his shoulder and saw Brown making his dash. Beyer yelled at him, to which Brown replied his "shoot straight" remark. The young man, who is about 20 years old, was not handcuffed and Beyer wasn't armed.

Brown was returned to Sedalia early Tuesday morning from Stockton, Calif., by Sheriff E. W. Goetz and Chief of Police Anson Finnell, to answer to charges of taking the automobile of Milton Hinlein, Terry hotel last August. It was abandoned at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

Officers Called
After his escape the sheriff and other deputies were notified, as were the local police and state highway patrol. A search was started but no trace of him was found until he made a call to police headquarters. Sergeant Cecil Smith was on the desk when the call came in and the conversation went along this line. "This is Brown, you Flatfoot. . . I am at 200 East Twenty-fourth street and if you come after me I'll kill the first . . . copper that shows up."

Smith called Adolph Glenn at the court house, called in Officers Lester Estes and Aubrey Jordan, also Sergeant Fred Rodecker of the highway patrol. They rushed to the Paxton home and upon arrival were informed Brown had been there but he had disappeared. A search of the house and outbuildings was made.

Checked Neighborhood
The officers then went to the home of his wife, 501 East Twenty-eighth street and also to the home of his grandmother on East Twenty-fifth street, but no trace was found of him. However, the officers stayed in the neighborhood and continued a check of various houses and buildings.

Then when they were about ready to call it "a day" they decided on another search of the Paxton residence. By this time Officers Estes and Jordan had been replaced by Officers George Riley and Robert Knox and Trooper Pete Stohr of the patrol had joined in the search. They surrounded the Paxton home and Glenn knocked on the door.

Officer Riley, flashing a light through a window saw someone on hands and knees crawling into another room and notified the other officers he was in the house. Glenn ordered the occupants to open the door or they would break in. After several minutes the door opened.

Hands Were up
Brown had started for the back door but saw the officers were there so came out the front door with his hands stretched high. He told the officers that after he had made the phone call he went down the Warsaw branch railroad tracks to a field a short distance south of Twenty-eighth street and dug a fox hole and crawled in it. He told of watching the officers every move about Lawnsdale and when it became so late and he was getting so cold decided to return to the Paxton home. He had been there about ten minutes when the officers arrived.

During his absence he had obtained a sweat shirt from some place. When he made his break he was in house slippers and rather thinly clad. After his capture he said, "I don't have anything to lose. Why don't you shoot me. That's what I thought would happen when I ran away."

His wife, Mary Brown, has sued him for divorce. The petition alleging general indignities was filed in circuit court November 26, 1945.

Today Brown is safe in "Big Four" the inner iron cell of the county jail.

Fire In Joplin
JOPLIN, Mo., Dec. 11—(AP)—One three-story brick building in the downtown district was destroyed and a second of comparable size was virtually razed in an early morning fire today that caused a loss estimated by Fire Chief John Hones at upward of $300,000.

Surprise Package At Church Supper In Poplar Bluff

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Dec. 12—(P)—A local business man tucked a paper sack containing a bottle of liquid refreshments at his side in his automobile just before going out for a party with the boys last night. When he started to leave, his mother-in-law asked him to drop her off at a church. She also carried a paper sack but it contained a jar of pickles for the church supper.

Later when the business man got to the party and opened his sack there were the pickles. So far today he had successfully avoided the reaction to the sack mixup.

Considering Industrial Survey Here

St. Louisan Makes Proposition to Sedalia C. of C.

Appearing before the board of directors of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce at a meeting held in the Chamber headquarters at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon was Joel C. Erickson of Joel C. Erickson and Associates, industrial engineers of St. Louis, who talked with the board concerning an industrial survey or an inventory of Sedalia and its trade territory that he would like to make for the city.

Mr. Erickson proposed to prepare an inventory of the entire trade area, consisting of eight counties. He would then prepare an analysis and outline a suggested program of economic development.

The speaker has been associated with an industrial planning commission in St. Joseph for eleven years and recently resigned to enter the field of industrial survey for smaller communities.

Other Surveys

He is now making a survey for Salina, Kas., and has completed a preliminary survey for Boonville.

The board took his proposition under advisement. Members will meet later to discuss whether or not to engage his services.

I. H. Reed, president of the Chamber of Commerce, presided over Tuesday's session.

Both Houses Have Problem

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 12—(AP)—Expanding social security needs gave the Missouri legislature a new set of problems today. Gov. Phil M. Donnelly put it up to leaders of both houses in a special conference yesterday—$4,050,000 more must be appropriated. He said, for old age assistance, dependent children's aid and general relief payments will have to be cut sharply before the fiscal year ends next June 30.

To meet the emergency, Rep. R. J. King (R) of Franklin county, appropriations committee chairman, said a bill would be introduced today to allot $2,050,000 more for old age assistance and $500,000 more for aid to dependent children.

He said no immediate allotment would be made for general relief and hinted the other figures might be reduced before the supplementary appropriations are finally enacted.

Donnelly said increasing case-loads and a bill passed by the assembly early last summer forced the request for more funds to prevent a shortage in the next six months.

James T. Denny Lions Speaker

James T. Denny, assistant manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., in Sedalia, was the principal speaker on the noonday program of the Sedalia Lions Club. His subject was "Benefits and Privileges of Non-Forfeiture Insurance."

Mr. Denny explained the various insurance plans and also spoke on converting the service-men's and women's wartime insurance. He also answered various questions regarding the subject.

Preceding his talk a skit prepared by Mr. Denny was given by Miss Kathryn Turner and Lawrence Brown, showing salesmanship between two varied grocery clerks. The skit was very entertaining as well as interesting.

Bernard Stanfield, program chairman, introduced Mr. Denny. Another guest other than the speaker, Miss Turner and Mr. Brown, was Lawrence Barnett of Marshall, guest of J. Harold Seaberg.

Adolph Glenn, president, presided over the meeting.

Ceilings Back On Materials For Building

Truman Appoints Kentuckian Special Housing Expeditor

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—(AP)—President Truman today asked that dwellings be placed under price control and directed reinstatement of the priority system on building materials.

His actions contemplated special preference to veterans in need of housing.

At the same time, Mr. Truman announced appointment of Wilson W. Wyatt, former mayor of Louisville, to be special housing expeditor under the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion.

When the housing matter came up at his weekly news conference, Mr. Truman said in response to questions that the administration planned to invoke price ceilings on old and new housing under the still operative war powers act, pending enactment of specific legislation on the subject.

After the conference, however, the White House issued a statement asserting the president's explanation was made under a misapprehension.

Legislation Not Necessary
Legislation is necessary to fix price ceilings, the White House statement said.

"Legislation is not necessary for the establishment of priorities on building materials," it added, "and these priorities are being set up under the War Powers Act without legislation."

The President had been asked whether legislation would be necessary on price ceilings. He replied no, because this is under the War Powers Act.

"The President in answering the question was under the impression that the question referred to priorities rather than price ceilings," the White House stated. The President's action was taken in approving a recommendation by Reconversion Director John W. Snyder.

The program calls for ceiling prices "on old and new housing." Mr. Truman said the Office of Price Administration "is now placing local dollar-and-cents ceiling on the construction materials themselves and many services."

Three Point Program
The three-point program calls for:

1. Speedy release of government-owned surplus housing units and building materials for use in housing veterans and their families.

2. A regulation, now being prepared for release before the middle of the month, establishing priorities on building materials.

The President said this regulation would establish priorities for single or multiple dwelling units costing $10,000 or less per unit. He said this would mean "about 30 per cent of all building materials will be channeled into this type of building," with the balance available for commercial, industrial, higher-priced dwelling and for other construction, public or private. He said he was acting under the Second War Power Act.

3. Ceiling prices on old and new housing, a field in which he said sharp prices had brought a threat of inflation which has been the most menacing in our economy.

"We are using all the powers that have been granted the administration to combat it," he added.

Forty Nazis Are Convicted

By Don Doane

DACHAU, Germany, Dec. 12—(AP)—A U. S. military government court today convicted Commandant Martin Weiss and 39 fellow defendants on a charge of committing atrocities at the Dachau concentration camp.

They will be sentenced tomorrow. Hanging is the penalty prescribed by U. S. army headquarters for the regime of starvation, torture and murder at the Nazi horror center overrun April 30.

The eight-officer court, headed by Brig. Gen. John M. Lentz, received the case at noon. It deliberated only 90 minutes before reaching the verdict.

The defense wound up the 24-day trial with pleas for mercy for several defendants, most of whom were S. S. guards, although five were camp doctors and three were prisoners used in official capacities.

Gen. Lentz first announced that the 40 would be sentenced later. Then the court decided that the sentences would be passed tomorrow morning.

Senate Passes Bill For Appropriation To the State Fair

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 12—(P)—A $52,675 appropriation for the Missouri State Fair at Sedalia was passed by the senate 25-0 today, and sent to the governor.

The allotment includes $22,675 for operations during the next six months and an additional $30,000 from fair earnings for improvements including $6,000 to buy an adjoining 40 acres of land and $19,000 for repairs.

Missouri's First Snow Of Season

By The Associated Press
"The first 'real' snow of the season!"

This was the weatherman's forecast for Missouri today (Wednesday), tonight, and tomorrow.

Northern Missouri will receive up to a three or four-inch blanket, he predicted, but temperatures will not vary greatly. In fact, he added temperatures will slowly rise.

Threats of drifts are indicated by the forecast of increasing southeasterly and easterly winds.

Byrnes on his Way by Plane To See Stalin

Eisenhower at Airfield to Wish Him Good Luck

By John M. Hightower

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—(P)—Secretary of State Byrnes left by plane today for Moscow where he plans to tackle half a dozen critical issues on which Big Three cooperation has stalled.

Among these issues are atomic energy and an eventual European peace conference.

Byrnes plane roared away from Washington airport at 8:20 a.m. CST.

General Dwight Eisenhower, army chief of staff surprised the secretary by showing up unexpectedly to tell him goodbye.

"I just thought I'd come out to say goodbye to the secretary and wish him luck," Eisenhower said. Byrnes told Eisenhower that he would remember him to Generalissimo Stalin.

The pilot of the big four motored transport was Capt. Cletus Keating, Jr., of Locust Valley, Long Island, who has piloted Byrnes on other trips.

There by Saturday

The flight schedule calls for getting Byrnes to the Russian capital in time for his first meeting Saturday with Soviet foreign commissar Molotov and British foreign minister Bevin.

Byrnes' top aim at the foreign ministers meeting will be to advise Molotov fully of Anglo-American-Canadian plans for the turning over of atomic energy problems to the United Nations in January. He intends to seek Molotov's reaction to this project and to solicit Russian support for creation of a special United Nations commission at London to work out atomic controls.

A Moscow dispatch last night quoted informed sources as saying that if the United States and Britain arrive at the conference with acceptable propositions on the atomic bomb, more than 50 per cent of the difficulties confronting the Big Three will have been solved.

Judgment for $100 Against the City

Judgment in the amount of $100 was taken by Inez Whitworth in circuit court this morning in her suit against the City of Sedalia for injuries received when she fell into a water meter hole on the sidewalk between Seventh street and Broadway on Ohio avenue, several months ago.

The plaintiff had alleged negligence on the part of the city for having a defective cover for the water meter hole.

The defendants must also pay the costs in the case.

Convinced War Was Inevitable

Marshall States He Also Knew the United States was Not Ready for it

By Jack Bell

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—(P)—Congressional investigators learned today the navy stopped tapping the Japanese consulate telephones in Honolulu five days before war began, partly because an officer was "incensed" with FBI actions.

This disclosure was made in a report by Lt. Col. Henry C. Clausen, special investigator for former Secretary of War Stimson. It was given to members of a senate-house committee investigating the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—(P)—Gen. George C. Marshall testified today that he was convinced as early as August, 1941, that a Pacific war was inevitable and knew the United States was not ready for it.

Marshall began his sixth day of testimony after a senate-house committee learned of a navy officer's purported prediction to Secretary Knox Dec. 7, 1941, that an intercepted Tokyo message meant "a surprise attack on Pearl Harbor today and possibly a midnight attack on Manila."

A hitherto "top secret" report of an army inquiry board said another naval officer quoted Capt. Alwin D. Kramer as having said in 1943 that he sent a notation to this effect to Knox. It went with the Tokyo message instructing Japanese "peace" envoys here to deliver their diplomatic reply at 1 p. m. (Washington time) Dec. seventh.

There was no indication in the report when Knox received this notation, if he received it at all.

Traced Event
Marshall was questioned by Rep. Keefe (R-Wis.), who traced the events of the summer of 1941.

Keefe said that war tension was growing then and Marshall agreed. "You were convinced as early as August that if the current events continued we would inevitably be drawn into a war with Japan, weren't you?" Keefe asked.

"Yes, sir," Marshall replied. "You knew at that time that we weren't prepared for a war in the Pacific?"

Marshall replied that was true, adding that he was being pushed from all sides for additional men and equipment, but was concentrating on attempts to build up Philippine defenses as a possible deterrent to a Japanese move to the south.

Other points in the previously secret report received by the committee included:

1. A conclusion by Maj. Gen. Myron C. Cramer, army judge advocate general, on Sept. 14, 1945, that the war department never had received any notice that the Japanese had broadcast a "winds" message warning their consuls of a break in American relations.

2. General Cramer's further notation that navy witnesses appearing before Rear Adm. H. Kent Hewitt "denied the receipt of any authentic 'winds' message."

3. A declaration by Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short that he probably would have ordered a full alert in Hawaii had he received before the attack the message Marshall sent to him Dec. 7. Short was the army commander at Pearl Harbor in 1941.

Before Marshall returned to the stand, Rep. Keefe (R-Wis.) told a reporter he plans to ask the former chief of staff to give his opinion as to where the major responsibility lies for the defeat suffered at Pearl Harbor.

"President Truman has said the American people were to blame for Pearl Harbor," Keefe asserted. "I want to see if General Marshall agrees with that."

Merry-Go-Round

by Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—Congressional leaders attended a secret state department dinner at Blair House—usually reserved for foreign potentates—in order to hear a sales talk on the loan to Britain.

Sales-talkers were Secretary of State Byrnes, Assistant Secretary Will Clayton, Secretary of the Treasury Vinson, and Federal Reserve Governor Marriner Eccles. Congressional listeners were: Senators George of Georgia, Vandenberg of Michigan, White of Maine, Tobey of New Hampshire, Wagner of New York, Connally of Texas, Austin of Vermont, and Representatives Bloom of New York, Eaton of New Jersey, Spence of Kentucky and Wolcott of Michigan.

The legislators listened, but were not pleased—especially over the fact that they had not been consulted before all details were arranged. Both Tom Connally and Walter George made this point. Also they felt we had not won sufficient assurance that Britain would end discriminatory trade practices.

What bothered them most, however, was the idea that the British loan might mean further large loans to other countries.

"After this loan, who is to be next?" Senator George wanted to know. "Is Russia next?"

"Russia doesn't need any large loan from us," replied Secretary Byrnes, "and if they ask for it I certainly won't approve it."

This prompted an impish question from Senator Vandenberg. "Is that the way to foster closer relations with the Russians?" he asked. Then he went on to remark that it doesn't help matters at all to open our treasury to the British and then close it to the Russians and others.

Pass Senate First

One reason for the secret dinner was to discuss the best strategy for winning congressional approval. Vinson and Byrnes were both worried about house reaction, feeling that lengthy and acrimonious public debate over the loan would be bad for our relations with the British. Although they expect eventual house approval, they felt it would go through with less difficulty and embarrassment if the senate were to vote first.

Usual procedure on all matters involving appropriations, however, is for the house to consider the legislation first.

But the senators, still irked because they had not been consulted during the negotiations, were in no mood to make the winning of congressional sanction for the loan any easier than they had to. Instead of agreeing that the loan should be referred to them first, they insisted that ordinary procedure be followed, with legislation first going to the house.

Note—Of all the solons present, the only man who seemed truly anxious to help the state and treasury departments was New Hampshire's Republican Senator Charles Tobey. One of the most isolationist senators in the early part of the war, Tobey has now become a genuine progressive.

MAN HAD BRICK IN HIS STOMACH FOR 10 YEARS

One man recently stated that for 10 years he felt like he had a brick in his stomach. This feeling was due to the lump of undigested food he always had inside of him. He was weak, worn out, headachy, swollen with gas and terribly constipated. Recently he started taking ERB-HELP and says the feeling like a brick in his stomach disappeared the second day. Bowels are regular now, gas and headaches are gone and he feels like a new man.

ERB-HELP contains 12 Great Herbs: they cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, act on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get ERB-HELP. Sold by all Drug Stores here in Sedalia.—Adv.

What Civic Responsibility Means

Newspapers that come to my desk here at the Clarion office, frequently tell about the way the brewing industry in Missouri, through its self-regulation program, is working to see that beer is sold in clean, wholesome surroundings.

An editor over in the west end of the state wrote Foundation Director Pierce the other day, that there was a place in his town that was not obeying the law. This information was verified by a Missouri Committee field man, and the tavern operator, after receiving a warning letter from Mr. Pierce, is once again a law-abiding beer retailer, as are the vast majority engaged in this legal business.

From where I sit, it was a real act of good citizenship for the brewing industry to accept a share of the responsibility for providing clean, wholesome and law-abiding places in which their product is sold, and where one can enjoy a beverage of moderation and sobriety.

THE ROAD TO CHINA

OF all the battle fronts of the global war, the situation in East Asia two years ago was the bleakest for the United Nations. In seeking to capitalize on the preoccupation of the Western Powers in Europe and the sneak attack on the American fleet at Pearl Harbor, the Japanese had established an immense perimeter of conquest in the Far East. By July 1942 it extended more than halfway across the Pacific, southward almost to Australia, and westward to the mountain barriers of the India-Burma front. The advance eastward of the Japanese had been halted in the critical battles of Midway and the Coral Sea. But Japan still held tremendous areas replete with the natural resources essential to the conduct of modern warfare.

So far, our advance back over these areas taken by the Japanese in their initial stride had been slow and painful. It seemed to many Americans that if we had to repeat again and again the bloody struggles for Guadalcanal and the Papuan Coast of New Guinea by what was popularly termed "island hopping," the decision in the war with Japan was distant many years. Army and Navy commanders were well aware of the difficulties and paucity of means. Nevertheless, we had undertaken offensive operations in the Pacific and Far East with only the small forces then available because it was imperative that the Japanese be halted and placed on the defensive.

Japan's rush into Burma had isolated China except for the thin line of air supply over the 500 miles of the Himalayan Hump between Assam, India, and the Yunnan plateau. The Japanese had attacked China at the most propitious time for carrying out their dreams of conquest of Asia and Oceania. In the face of almost a complete lack of war material, China had refused to submit. But her condition by the early summer of 1943 had grown truly desperate.

White House callers he usually did three-fourths of the talking. When President Truman receives callers he usually does seven-eighths of the listening. But sometimes he fools people. Here are two recent cases where he used widely varying techniques.

Last week Congressman Koppelman of Hartford, Conn., called at the White House to discuss strategy for winning congressional approval of the bill defining our participation in the United Nations. Six months before Rep. Sol Bloom and Senator Tom Connally had introduced their bills for sending U. S. representatives to UNO, Koppelman had beat them to it with a similar bill. The president listened carefully as Koppelman told him of GOP plans to introduce in the house the same crippling amendments offered by Senator Taft of Ohio, though finally defeated.

As Koppelman was about to leave, Truman spoke almost his first word.

"Mr. Koppelman," he said, "I am glad you came in. I know of your deep interest in this legislation and appreciate your advice. I will discuss it with the speaker and the majority leader."

"Perhaps you noticed that I was making notes while we were talking. I like to do that when I talk with people—because so often I find that there is much I can learn from the people who come to this office."

Truman Talks

One day earlier, however, it was a different story, when the president's old cronies of the Truman committee (now the Mead committee) came up to talk about the way the army is hoarding surplus material.

Chairman Jim Mead of New York and committee counsel Geo. Meader had prepared a detailed report showing how the army is hoarding millions of blankets, sheets, underdrawers and other surplus goods. Mead began to read from this document, but before he could get into it, the president took over.

"Yes, I know about that, Jim," said Truman. "I've been doing a lot of thinking about this whole question of surplus disposal, and I'm going to work out a new scheme to push the stuff out. I'm going to give the whole sales job to the RFC, and put some top-flight merchandisers in there. We will put merchandisers in the RFC regional offices, too, to get the goods moving. I know some of you don't like the way the RFC has been functioning, but it is the organization which has regional offices already set up, and I think it will be better to work through an operating set-up."

Truman then continued to do most of the talking. He told the committee that the smaller war plants corporation would be kept in the picture as a claiming agency for small business and veterans, and talked at length of the urgency of getting surplus property moved.

Truman Trusts Army
Senator Harley Kilgore of West Virginia interrupted at one point to remark:

"But, Harry, all this merchandising is a fine idea only if you can see to it that the army will declare these goods surplus."

Kilgore and Senator Owen Brewster of Maine made the further point that there must be some assurance that the army declare commercially valuable goods surplus.

"You're perfectly right about that," Truman agreed, but he did not offer any assurance that he would take steps to see that the army unloads. His attitude seemed to be that the brass hats will come around to it shortly.

Mead never did get more than started on his report of army stockpiling because Truman did practically all the talking. Apparently, he felt he was right back in his old job of committee chairman.

As the senators left, Mead shook hands with the president and had walked halfway to the door before he remembered that he was still holding the special report in his hand. Returning to the president's desk, he said:

"We made this up for you, Harry, and I guess we might as well leave it. You seem to know the story, but anyhow the details are here."

As the committee left the White House, one Republican senator remarked, "Harry never used to dominate our meetings as much as he did today. I've never known him to carry the ball all alone like that. That's the way FDR used to act when we'd call on him. I'm worried about Harry."

THE DOCTOR SAYS Teen Age Tooth Decay Needs Care

By WILLIAM A. O'BRIEN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Although dental caries (decay) occurs at any time of life, the first set of teeth is most apt to decay between 4 and 8 years of age and the permanent set between 12 and 18 years. From 5 to 18 years the average person acquires about 1.3 new cavities a year; after 35 years the rate of development declines markedly.

According to Maury Massler, D. D. S., University of Illinois College of Dentistry. Teen age decay (12-18 years) differs from simple caries or even neglected caries by its sudden appearance in different teeth at the same time. It may even affect the front teeth, which usually resist decay at this age. It is a rapidly burrowing type which often invades the pulp of the tooth when the enamel still shows only a small break.

See Dentist Often
Teen age decay has a tendency to develop after adolescent spurts in growth. The number of decayed teeth and the rate of development of cavities are greater in tall, thin, rapidly growing children than in those who are stockier and grow slower. Parents often complain that even though their children visit the dentist every six months, cavities are found on every visit. In the teen ages, dental visits should be made as often as every two or three months if necessary.

Purpose of treatment is to clear out the decay portion before it has a chance to invade the pulp. If the defect is filled, there is little chance for the decay to recur, although another portion of the tooth may be involved later.

Many teen age children who practice good oral hygiene and apparently eat a well-balanced diet develop teen age caries. Food plaques collect on the biting surface and between the teeth; in both situations the adherent pieces are more apt to be missed by the tooth brush than if they are along the gum margins. Lactic acid bacilli flourish in the mouths of some children who chew gum constantly or use soft drinks, candy and sugar to excess. These germs apparently secrete an acid which destroys the enamel around attached food particles.

Fill In Vacancies
When a tooth is lost the space must be filled by an artificial substitute or the face will change in shape from improper chewing of food and teeth in the immediate vicinity will be damaged.

Teen age caries in its most severe form is known as rampant caries. Many teeth are lost because rampant caries is not recognized until it is too late.

Supper for Servicemen

Plans for a supper December 31, to which all returned servicemen of Stockley community will be invited, were outlined at the December meeting of Stockley Extension club at the home of Mrs. Forrest Fischer.

A contributive dinner was served with Stockley school pupils and teacher as guest.

The program followed the theme of Christmas, consisting of a devotional service led by Mrs. Vogel-mier; roll call, to which members responded by saying anything they wished; play, "Stars of Christmas," Mrs. Means, Mrs. Rissler and Mrs. Patterson; song, "Faith of Our Fathers," Mrs. Lind, Mrs. Faulkner, Mrs. Warren and Mrs. Suiter; history of the song "Silent Night," Miss Ada French; "Christmas Items," Mrs. Clark.

Names were drawn for "secret pals" for the new year.

Four new members were welcomed, Mrs. Carl Smith, Mrs. Robert Hall, Mrs. Jim Green and Mrs. Harold Williams.

One game was played, followed by the exchange of Christmas gifts.

Buy Curtains For Stage

Mrs. Ralph Null presided over the meeting of Bryson Parent-Teacher association at Bryson school Friday evening. Motions were made that new stage curtains be purchased for the school and that extra refreshments be paid for by the PTA. The Christmas program, to be given the night of December 21, was announced.

Mrs. Joe Elliott led the devotional service.

Mrs. Ernest Johnson, program chairman, presented the following program: song, "Silent Night," PTA members; music, Mrs. Forrest Rice; song, "Santa Claus is Coming to Town," Dorothy Jewell Johnson; stunt, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Elliott; music, Gynna Faye Elliott; reading, "Widow Rogers A-Sparkin'," Mrs. Edith Lewis; play, "Mrs. Trump Goes to Short Course," Mrs. Paul Gregory, Carl Lee Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Null, June Null, Kathryn Upton and Mr. and Mrs. George Raymer; song, "Joy to the World," PTA members.

Refreshments were served.

Cattle Sorry Looking Bunch

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 12.—(P)—Sixty head of cattle believed to have been within 25 miles of the experimental atomic bomb explosion in New Mexico last July are "a pretty sorry looking bunch of cattle," according to Ray L. Cuff, Kansas City livestock officials.

Cuff, regional manager of the National Livestock Loss Prevention board, examined the cattle when they passed through Kansas City en route to Oak Ridge, Tenn., for experimentation.

He said the cattle looked starved and their normally red coats were greyed and spotted with darker patches of gray. The hides, he added, were flecked with white, flaky scales.

Declaring that he's willing to "believe anything I hear" about the atomic bomb if these cattle had been affected by the explosion, Dr. C. R. Behler, district supervisor of the packers and stockyards administration, described the animals as weak and listless. He reported one calf dead on arrival in Kansas City.

Atomic Power in Peace

Fiction and Fear Mask the Tremendous Potential Benefits of Atomic Energy

This is the first of six authoritative dispatches by Peter Edson, chief of NEA's Washington Bureau, outlining the future of atomic power in a world at peace.

By PETER EDSON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Two things are wrong with nearly everything that has been written or spoken about atomic energy so far:

1. Too much attention has been paid to the bomb and not nearly enough to practical peacetime uses of atomic energy for the good of mankind.

2. Whenever anyone has tried to discuss non-military uses of atomic energy it has usually been in dream world stuff—queer mixtures of Alley Oop's time machine and H. G. Wells' fanciful tales on what life will be like in the year 2000.

The real story that needs to be told is what atomic energy can do between now and 1960.

That this story has not been properly plugged is due to several contributing reasons.

1. The bomb has scared too many people out of their wits.

2. The frequently-quoted figure of two billion dollars, as the cost of the bomb has made many people think that atomic energy will be too costly for any good use.

3. The friction of driving a rocket to the moon using one lump of coal and a couple of tea leaves for fuel is so much Man-from-Mars malarkey that nobody takes it seriously.

4. No ordinary mortal can understand the Smyth report, best seller that it is.

5. And finally, the Army has clamped down such a tight lid of military security that a lot of the stuff that everyone should be talking about hasn't yet been mentioned above a whisper, except when good scientists get together with an atom on the table.

Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, the other officers of the Manhattan District Engineers and the scientists who helped develop the bomb can't be blamed for his last restriction. You wouldn't want to be court-martialed for giving away information that may change the fate of the world, either. Secrecy, therefore, has to be maintained until Congress decides what U. S. atomic energy policy is going to be.

But even with this censorship imposed, enough of the excitement over the bomb itself has now died down to make possible a calm appraisal of some of the practical things atomic energy can be made to do within the next generation. And once revealed in its proper light, this energy hitherto locked up in the nucleus of the atom will be shown us as one of the greatest boons bestowed upon mankind, instead of its greatest curse.

Any talk of trying to look up this secret, therefore, becomes preposterous. The world can't be made to move backwards. Curbs must, can and probably will be put on the use of atomic energy in bombs. That done, this nuclear energy—atomic energy as it has been properly known—can be allowed to take its place in the forward march of civilization.

The two billion dollar cost of the bomb is a great misrepresentation. That includes everything, at war-inflated prices. It covers practically five years of work. Averaged out over this period, it represents less than the 500 million dollars a year which General Groves has estimated as the maximum cost of future operation. Two years from now, the cost of operation may be down to 350 million dollars a year or less.

The two billion dollars includes research, capital investment, raw materials, operations, housing for a peak of nearly 100,000 workers and their families.

Costly Plants
It takes in the building of six huge plants. Four uranium separation process plants at Oak Ridge, Tenn., the three atomic piles at Hanford, Wash.; the best equipped physics laboratory in the world at Los Alamos, N. M.; and equipment for additional research at Yale, Columbia, Princeton, Rochester, Chicago, California and other universities.

It takes in the building of three new cities on the map, starting practically from scratch. They are Oak Ridge, Tenn., maximum population 78,000; Richland, Wash., maximum population 18,000; Los Alamos, formerly the site of a boys' ranch school and raised to a maximum population of about 6,000.

The biggest item on the cost sheet is the gaseous diffusion plant at Oak Ridge, cost about $500,000. This is the most successful of the uranium separation plants and the one that will probably be kept in operation. Next biggest item is the Hanford Engineer works, cost about $350,000.

The important thing in connection with these figures is that all atomic energy installations for peacetime use won't have to cost this much. What they will cost can't be determined because they haven't been built. But experi-

Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, left, discusses the future of atomic power with Dr. Richard C. Tolman, dean of the Graduate School of California Institute of Technology, and Dr. H. S. Smyth, chairman of the Department of Physics of Princeton University.

56 Seeds in Grapefruit

Most of us have heard tales of the wary business man who succeeded after "starting out on a shoestring," but Mrs. Ruth Arnold, 700 West Pettis street, declared this morning that if she but lived in a warmer state, she would enter the citrus orchard business with the total assets of the one grapefruit she cut for breakfast this morning—and expect to make a good profit, too. Because the medium sized, yellow grapefruit (she doesn't know the variety nor the state which produced it) contained 56 seeds.

She wouldn't expect an immediate profit, however, since it takes seven years for such a tree to produce fruit, and fears that if the trees followed the "like father, like son" theory, it might be a "seedy" enterprise.

Marvells Coming

What is necessary to a complete understanding of this problem is a poor man's Smyth report. Something that will spell out in terms that a high school student can understand some of the simple mechanics of this business.

That may not come until the Army can lift the lid on some more of its secrets. The true story of what atomic energy can be made to do within the next 10 or 15 years may not be quite as spectacular as the post-bomb wars in the comic books, but it will be plenty interesting just the same.

In hard cold realism and without any of the 2946 A. D. stuff, the things that atomic energy can be made to include the marvels:

1. The opening of vast new frontiers of medical research throwing new light on how the human body works and what can be done to make it work better. This is a big new chapter in the endless war against disease.

2. Re-engineering of the uranium "pile"—the atomic energy firebox—so that it will develop heat to generate steam for power production. It can also be built as a city's central heating plant for hot water or steam heat piped into your home. 9 private atomic pile in place of your basement furnace, however, is now impractical.

3. The opening of research into new worlds of chemistry, to discover what other substances in addition to uranium can be made to give up the energy locked in the nuclei of the atoms.

4. The development of over 5,000 new products and processes for industry, affecting nearly every phase of life. These are all by-products of atomic energy research and they have nothing to do with atomic energy itself. All manufacturing industries stand to gain from new technologies in pumping, lubrication, handling of gasses and corrosives, making of precision instruments, safety for workers in factories. Some of the industries to be particularly benefited include petroleum re-refined include petroleum re-refined include petroleum re-refined.

5. The atomic bomb project called for the largest research program ever undertaken. From it industrialists, engineers and scientists learned new methods of working together. Future research will be on an entirely different scale. All mankind stands to gain as a result.

These are some of the practical aspects of atomic energy development for the immediate future that will be told in more detail in the remaining articles of this series.

Killed in Fall From Train

ST. CHARLES, Mo., Dec. 12.—(P)—Victor C. Davis of Moberly, conductor on a westbound Wabash freight train, was killed early today in a fall from the train as it was crossing the Missouri river bridge here.

Sheriff Lester Plackman said Theodore Williams, brakeman, told him Davis left the caboose and started walking along the tops of the cars as the train was passing over the bridge.

When he failed to find Davis a few minutes later, Williams said, he stopped the train and the crew searched along the tracks.

Davis' body was found on the ground 60 feet below the west approach to the bridge.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Edmund C. Walton

Mrs. Nellie A. Ingram Walton, widow of the late Edmund G. Walton, died suddenly at her home in Carmel, Calif., late Tuesday afternoon, according to word received by relatives here.

Mrs. Walton was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Benton H. Ingram and was married to Edmund G. Walton, of London, England, in Sedalia in 1899.

Surviving are three daughters, Miss Audrey Walton of the home in Carmel, Mrs. Carroll Binder, Minneapolis, Minn., and Mrs. Gunion, New York City, two sisters, Mrs. W. O. Harris and Miss Bess Ingram and one brother, Charles H. Ingram, all of 206 South Grand avenue and three grandchildren.

A brother, Martin G. Ingram preceded her in death in 1896 and a grandson, Carroll Binder, Jr., was killed in action while serving with the U. S. Army Air Corps over Germany.

J. A. Schreck Service

Funeral services for J. A. Schreck, 71 years old, Second street and Dundee avenue, who died at Bothwell hospital Saturday night, were held at 9:00 o'clock this morning at the Sacred Heart church with the Rev. A. J. Brunsvick officiating.

Palbearers were William Crowe, Julius Wolfe, Fred Morley, Herman Strout, George Clark and Otto Thomas.

Burial was in Calvary cemetery.

Mrs. H. B. Hauschild

Mrs. H. B. Hauschild, mother of Miss Christine Hauschild, a state officer in the Business and Professional Women's club federation, died Sunday at her home in Columbia, where she had resided over forty years.

Funeral services were conducted at the Lutheran church, Columbia, of which she was a member, Tuesday afternoon.

Fred Schumacher

Arrangements for funeral services for Fred Schumacher, 77, 521 East Tenth street, who was fatally injured when struck by an automobile Saturday night, will be completed upon the arrival of his son, Walter Schumacher, Bremerton, Wash., who is expected in Sedalia late today.

The Rev. H. U. Campbell, pastor of the Fifth Street Methodist church, will conduct the services and Mrs. Mae Moser will be in charge of the music. Burial will be in Crown Hill cemetery.

Mr. Schumacher, who was born July 15, 1868, in Cole Camp, died early Sunday morning of the injuries sustained Saturday night. He was a painter and resided in Sedalia many years.

In addition to the widow, Mrs. Anna M. Schumacher, and the son he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Leecer of Kansas City.

Leaves Hospital, Is Released By Army

Cpl. Charles Morrison arrived home Tuesday night after receiving his discharge Tuesday afternoon at the O'Reilly General hospital in Springfield. He served five years, ten months and twenty-three days with nineteen months in the European area. He was wounded in action in Germany on April 13, 1945. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Morrison, 733 East Third street and is now at home with his wife at 205 South Massachusetts avenue.

Death Suspect

Arrest of ex-convict A. L. Cline, 56, above, in San Francisco on suspicion of forgery has led to new attempts to link him with mysterious deaths of eight elderly women and two men since 1931, including that last Nov. 29 of his wealthy wife, Mrs. Delora Krebs Cline, 73, former Chicago socialite. Photo above was made in 1933 during inquiry into the sudden death in San Bernardino, Calif., of a former wife, Mrs. Bessie Van Sickle Cline, supposedly of a heart attack.

Resumes Duties

Miss Dorothy White, of High Point school, who closed her school because of illness is able to resume her duties. Her mother, Mrs. Herman White, is now ill at their home on route 5, Sedalia.

Study Club Meeting

The Study Club of Jefferson school will meet at the home of Mrs. Ralph Smith, 511 East Booneville at 1:00 o'clock Friday afternoon.

There will be a gift exchange.

Marines to Stay in China

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—President Truman said today that United States Marines will remain in China until surrender terms with the Japanese have been carried out.

Presumably this means that as long as there are any important forces of defeated Japanese left in China the marines will stay there, since Secretary of State Byrnes recently declared that under the surrender terms the United States is committed to help get the surrendered Japanese units home.

Mr. Truman also was asked at his news conference about Byrnes' departure today for a Moscow meeting with Foreign Commissar Molotov and Foreign Minister Bevin.

He replied only that the trip was planned a long time ago as part of the program of foreign minister meetings agreed upon at the Yalta "Big Three" conference.

He added that he expected that the next meeting of the three foreign secretaries would be held in Washington, probably in March or April.

Fr. Flanagan Pleads for Boy

Critical Over System of Youth Punishment

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Father Edward J. Flanagan, operator of Boys Town at Omaha, Neb., told the Missouri legislature Tuesday that America's system of punishment for a youth that goes wrong is a very false philosophy—punishment not help.

The Catholic Priest who for 27 years has provided a home for boys declared "we don't seem to have any program of helplessness and rehabilitation" for young lawbreakers.

"There isn't a penitentiary in the country that is run properly. And there aren't enough guards and guns to keep a prisoner thinking and doing right. Those prisoners are just being thrown into the hopper of crime."

He reopened the case of Frank Raymond DeFord whose custody he sought in October, 1944, after the 13-year-old youngster was brought to the Missouri penitentiary to serve a 20-year-sentence on conviction of killing his foster mother, Mrs. Andrew Kley of Jefferson county.

"You have no program for that boy," he told the lawmakers. "You haven't a blessed place to put him so he can be reformed properly and your pride is too great to let him be taken outside the state for help."

Used As Messenger

"I could plead for that child for the next ten years and I wouldn't get any further. He's getting to be just a spoiled boy out there."

DeFord is still in the penitentiary, but Gov. Phil M. Donnelly said he was being cared for by Penal Director Thomas E. Whitecotton who uses him as a messenger and sees that the boy gets proper attention and is not thrown among older prisoners.

Father Flanagan told a reporter later he blamed the Governor for not permitting him to take the youngster back to his home.

"I think your Governor is opposed to that because he believes it would be an admission that your state lacks something that Boys Town can offer."

The Governor, told of the priest's remarks, said the state could not adopt a policy of sending all young lawbreakers out of the state. He said Missouri's responsibility is to see that they do get the proper attention and education.

A Children's code commission, charged with investigating the causes of juvenile delinquency and enactment of laws that will bring juvenile rehabilitation up to date, is expected to make a report of its findings and recommendations before the end of 1946.

To Seek Fund For Fairs Prizes

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Missouri's General Assembly will be asked to appropriate $50,000 for prizes and premiums to be given contest winners in county and local fairs in the state in 1946. Rollo E. Singleton, Secretary of The Missouri Association of Fairs and Agricultural Exhibits, said Tuesday.

Singleton said the state's contribution would represent only 30 per cent of the total prize money awarded participants in poultry, livestock, home economics, horse breeding, and agricultural education contests held by the fairs. He made the announcement after the annual meeting of the fair association, representing more than 100 fairs throughout the state, received a similar grant of $25,000 from the general assembly.

Elected officers for the forthcoming year were:

Arthur E. Bond, Mexico, re-elected president; Fred P. Schell, Liberty, re-elected vice-president; Henry H. Baker, St. Joseph, elected 2nd vice-president; Orel E. John, Huntsville, elected 3rd vice-president; G. B. Boyd, Springfield, elected 4th vice-president; Adolph Keyes, Jackson, elected 5th vice-president.

Singleton, a resident of Columbia, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Divorce Is Petitioned

Mrs. Frank McMackin filed suit for divorce Tuesday in the circuit court of Pettis county against Frank McMackin to whom she was married on August 4, 1906. General indignities are alleged.

The couple separated December 10, 1945, according to the petition.

The plaintiff, whose attorney is L. J. Harned, asks for suit money and reasonable attorney fees.

Assessed Fine On Check Charge

James Land Jr. of Marshall, Mo. was arrested on state warrant and charged with passing a worthless check of $9.00 on payment of purchases to Montgomery Ward of Sedalia and brought before Justice of the Peace A. M. Harlan Tuesday afternoon. He was fined $1.00 and costs which with making good on the check amounted to $25.00. The arrest was made by Constable Lujan and Russell.

Capt. Wiederhold Has Arrived

Capt. Henry Wiederhold, who has been in the army four years, serving with the Corps of Engineers, arrived in Sedalia Monday, accompanied by Mrs. Wiederhold, who met him in St. Louis, where he reported at Jefferson Barracks after his arrival in the States from 14 months of service in the European theatre of operations.

With their children, Mary Sue and John Phillip, Capt. and Mrs. Wiederhold will remain in Sedalia for about a week at the home of Mrs. Wiederhold's mother, Mrs. John L. Sullivan, 418 East Seventh street, and then will go to Bellwood, Ill., to spend the Christmas holidays with the captain's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Wiederhold.

Capt. Wiederhold is on terminal leave until February 3. He arrived at Boston on a troopship December 3.

Schools Close At Columbia

COLUMBIA, Dec. 12.—(AP)—With 14 teachers and 975 pupils reported absent as influenza and cold victims, the Columbia public schools were closed at noon Tuesday.

School system officials, who reported the closing primarily was attributable to the shortage of teachers, said the schools would re-open next Monday.

Dr. Dan G. Stinen, director of the University of Missouri student health service, said tonight that many of the University students were ill with colds and influenza, but described most of the cases as mild.

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. Sorrel, a hardy perennial used in soups, salads, sauces, grows freely in any garden soil and is increased by dividing the roots during the early part of spring.

Many Attend Dairy School

A large, very interested crowd of central Missouri dairymen attended the dairy type school held at the Paul and Ernest Selken farm at Smithton last Friday.

The school was sponsored by the Missouri College of Agriculture, State Department of Agriculture and the Central Missouri Holstein Breeders Association.

Discussions were led by Professors M. J. Regan and E. T. Itshner of the College of Agriculture and J. U. Morris, PePitts county extension agent.

During the afternoon six different classes of Holstein Friesian cattle were judged, with dairy type, udders, and conformation being discussed in the selection of cattle. Following the judging Prof. Regan spoke briefly on the importance of the dairy industry. Mr. Morris on the educational value of such field days and Paul Selken told of the ges, production and show ring records of the animals used in the afternoon work.

Social Events — Clubs

The Sedalia Garden club will have its annual Christmas party Friday afternoon at the Bothwell hotel with a luncheon to be served at 1:00 o'clock.

Members are asked to bring white gifts of non-parishable food to fill baskets which will be given to both the Melita Day nursery and the nursery for Negro children.

Arrangements were made for an exchange meeting during the year with the Green Ridge Garden club at the December meeting of the LaMonte Garden club December 4 at the home of Mrs. Karl Wimer. The out-going president, Mrs. C. N. Moore, conducted the business session.

Preceding the installation of officers, Miss Shirley Jean Wimer, sang "I Would Be True." Mrs. Robert Phelan, chairman of Circle Four of the Sedalia Garden club acted as installing officer, using an installation ceremony written by her sister, Mrs. F. J. Chapel of Jefferson City, past president of the State Garden clubs. Mr. Phelan was assisted in the candle lighting service by Mrs. R. E. Kerby, who as each officer was given her charge, lighted the tall white tapers placed in an arrangement of green fir, pine boughs and pine cones, which carried out the club colors. The centerpiece was made by Mrs. Moore and Mrs. King.

Mrs. Phelan impressed each of the following officers with the importance and dignity of her office: president, Mrs. Lowell Reavis; first vice president, Mrs. H. A. Wade; second vice president, Miss Mamie Walker; secretary, Mrs. Jessie Yancey; corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. N. Moore; treasurer, Mrs. Carl Wimer; librarian, Mrs. Scott Higgins; parliamentarian, Mrs. Ida King, Mrs. W. B. Lehmer led the installation prayer and soft music was played throughout the ceremony by Miss Shirley Jean Wimer. All club members pledged cooperation during the ensuing year.

The program, presented by Mrs. H. A. Wade, Mrs. W. B. Lehmer and Mrs. R. E. Kerby, consisted of "The Legend of the Dogwood" by and Mrs. R. E. Kerby, consisted of the Lilac Tree, Miss Shirley Jean Wimer, and a speech on "Different Arrangements of Christmas Decorations Made From Grasses, Twigs and Milk-Weed Pods," by Mrs. Lehmer. Mrs. Wade then produced a variety of such materials and a collection of containers with which the membership, divided into groups, formed ten artistic arrangements. The award for the best, as judged by Mrs. Robert Phelan and Mrs. W. A. Harbaugh of Sedalia, guests of the club, went to Mrs. J. D. White.

A number of relatives and friends attended a wedding reception Saturday from 8 to 10 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Sadie McMahon, 663 East Sixteenth street, for Mr. and Mrs. Otha J. Durrill, who were married November 29, Mrs. Durrill is the former Miss Esther Knight of Perrine, Fla. A three-tier wedding cake, decorated with pink rosebuds and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, flanked by white tapers in crystal holders, formed the centerpiece of the lace-covered dining table. Those who assisted the bride in serving the cake and ice cream were Mrs. Arthur Griffith, Mrs. Howard Durrill and Miss Lula Mae Durrill.

Mr. Durrill received his military discharge October 31 after 33 months' service with the marine corps, 28 of which were spent in the Pacific area. The couple left Sunday evening to make their home in Kansas City for the present, where Mr. Durrill will take training under the G. I. Bill of Rights. Miss Loraine Hopkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hopkins, of Sedalia, and Mr. Lloyd W. Rickard, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Richard, of Belgreen, Ala., were married on Wednesday, December 5, in the Chapel of the Baptist Seminary in Kansas City, Kas., with Rev. Harold Sweeney reading the wedding service. The bride was attired in a street length dress of light blue wool with accessories of black. Mrs. Richard was born and reared in Sedalia and attended the Smith-Cotton high school. Mr. Richard, who was a staff sergeant in the Army Air Force and was formerly stationed at the Sedalia Army Air Field, recently received his discharge from service. He now has employment in Chillicothe where the young couple will make their home.

Miss June Abney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Abney, 411 North Prospect avenue, was married to Major Sidney Harwell, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Harwell, Sr., of Memphis, Texas, at 5:00 o'clock Friday evening, December 7, by Dr. W. O. Shank, at his home in Kansas City, Kas. Attending the couple were Mrs. Harry Broyles and Miss Marjorie Rice. The bride chose for her wedding a dress of light blue wool, street length fashioned with fitted waist, high neckline and full skirt. Her accessories were brown and she wore a corsage of gardenias. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls. Mrs. Broyles wore a street length dress of light blue with black accessories and Miss Rice wore a gray suit with accessories of black. Both wore gardenia corsages.

The bride was born and reared in Sedalia and was graduated from the Smith-Cotton high school in the spring of 1940. She is a member of the "S" club of which she is secretary. For the past three years and a half she has been employed at the Lamy Manufacturing company. Major Harwell was reared in Memphis, Tenn., where he received his education. He entered the Army Air Corps five years ago, shortly after graduation from the high school at Memphis. He was stationed at the Sedalia Army Air Field in 1943 and was overseas nineteen months in the European area. He is entitled to wear the air medal with four oak leaf clusters, the European campaign ribbon with seven campaign stars, the American theatre ribbon and the presidential unit citation. He is now stationed again at the Sedalia Army Air Field.

The couple have an apartment at 302 West Seventh street, and have returned home after a few days visit in Kansas City.

Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Elsie Laughman and family were: Melvin Chamberlain, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Chamberlain and daughter, Dorothy, Mrs. Oscar Evans and family, all of Warrensburg and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Laughman of Kansas City. Tom Laughman recently received his honorable discharge after spending almost 5 years in the service. He spent 14 months overseas during which time he received the purple heart and spent four months in the hospital at Chickasa, Okla.

Miss Dorothy Elizabeth Riley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mason Riley, route 2, Sedalia, became the bride of Donald W. Canfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Canfield of Chillicothe, in a ceremony performed at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Flat Creek Baptist church. The Rev. Orville F. Woolery, pastor, read the service. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Keith Bohon, accompanied by Mrs. Orville F. Woolery, sang "Because" and "Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life" and the pianist played "Till the End of Time." The Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin" was used as the processional and the Mendelssohn wedding march as recessional.

Christmas greens and poinsettias The candles were lighted by Miss Anna Mae Wissman and Miss Joan Riley, younger sister of the bride. William Riley, the bride's brother and Jesse Fairfax, Jr., served as ushers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street length dress of winter white, a small black hat with black veiling, black accessories and a corsage of red roses. Her matron of honor, Mrs. Darrell Miller of Joplin, also wore winter white with black accessories and a corsage of roses. Mr. Darrell Miller of Joplin was best man.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony. Mrs. G. E. Miller, Mrs. J. E. Fairfax, Miss Marjorie Billing and Miss Helen Anderson assisted in the dining room. A three-tier wedding cake, flanked by white tapers in poinsettia holders, formed the table centerpiece. The couple left immediately for Joplin to reside.

Mrs. Canfield, a graduate of Smithton high school, as been for the past 15 months, attending St. Luke's School of Nursing in Kansas City.

Mr. Canfield, a graduate of Chillicothe high school, received his military discharge November 23. He entered service January 6, 1941, served in the European theater of operations and was a prisoner of war for five months. The bridegroom's parents arrived Sunday morning for the wedding.

Miss Norveta Mae Koenke, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Koenke of Syracuse, became the bride of Mr. James Earl Watring, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Watring of Ottumwa at 5:30 p. m. December 5. The Rev. H. A. Wood of Ottumwa, Methodist minister, performed the single ring ceremony in the presence of relatives and intimate friends. A wedding march was played by Mrs. Wood.

Attending the couple were Mrs. Gerald Rimels, sister of the bridegroom and Leonard Koenke, Jr., brother of the bride.

Miss Koenke, now Mrs. Watring, selected for her wedding a white dress with crystal trimming. Her accessories were black and her corsage of red and white roses. Mrs. Rimels wore a pale blue crepe dress with black accessories and corsage of red roses.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony. A three-tier wedding cake decorated with red roses and bouquets of the same flowers in crystal holders formed the centerpiece of the dining table.

The couple left for Jefferson City to reside. The bride's going away outfit was a blue wool suit with black accessories.

Mrs. Watring attended a beauty culture school the past six months while Mr. Watring was employed as a transport truck driver.

A shower for the couple was given recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Steel. Refreshments were served.

The annual Christmas party of the Sedalia Retail Credit association was held in conjunction with a luncheon at the Ambassador room of Hotel Bothwell Tuesday.

Claude Boul, in charge of the informal program consisting of games and a general good time, presented to G. V. Jones, secretary of the association, a tiger eye cameo ring in appreciation of his long term of service in that capacity.

Singing of Christmas songs was led by Charlie Maggard and accompanied by Mrs. W. L. Monegan. Mrs. Herbert E. Hall is president of the association.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Stuhner returned home Tuesday from honeymooning at Detroit and in the east and will make their home at Mora near where his parents reside. While away they visited the bride's sisters, Miss Helen Marie Klein and Mrs. "Chuck" Nanry. Mr. Nanry, who is home from Okinawa, also several uncles and aunts at Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Chaney at Hotel Tuller, Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Collins, of Bretton Drive, Detroit, Mrs. Will Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Klein of that place, also Mr. and Mrs. Otto Beardon, of Dearborn, Mich., and others. They spent some time in Canada.

World's Busiest Phone Gets Calls From Coast to Coast Asking About Troop Arrivals at San Francisco

Troops arriving at the Golden Gate get a Highland warrior's greeting from bagpipers of the Canadian Legion. Information about GI arrivals is given to relatives by a busy staff of telephone operators working around the clock.

By AL OSTROW NEA Staff Correspondent SAN FRANCISCO—The busiest telephone number in the world today is West 6111. Extension 3535. The phone literally never stops ringing from dawn to dusk, and on into the night, too.

At one time, several thousand persons decided to call the number simultaneously, and succeeded in blacking out all telephone service in a wide area of San Francisco. Officials, fearful that some important call for police, firemen or an ambulance might be prevented, seriously considered setting up a separate new exchange for the single number.

The number belongs to the San Francisco Port of Embarkation's ship and personnel arrival information bureau. Establishment of the bureau was prompted by a deluge of thousands of letters, telegrams and phone calls. "When is my boy coming home?" they demanded.

Human Dramas "I guess there's a real public demand for that sort of information," reflected Maj. Gen. Homer M. Groninger, commanding general of the Port of Embarkation. "Let's see if we can't supply it."

He sent officers on flying trips to Pearl Harbor, Manila, Okinawa, Tokyo and other far Pacific points where homeward bound veterans are crowding aboard transports for return to harbors decorated with "Welcome Home—Well Done" signs. They arranged for advance transmission to San Francisco of all available passenger lists and information about arrival times.

Now 10 telephone answerers are on duty in relays, 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Calls come from all parts of the country, and there is human drama in every one.

"My son's outfit was supposed to leave Manila today," declared one woman telephoning from Maine. "Can you tell me when they'll arrive?"

A young lieutenant checked his files, provided the information, and heard an excited voice chortle: "Fine, then I'll come right out to San Francisco to meet him at the dock."

A few days later, the same woman called again—this time from a local station. She had flown across the continent to welcome the boy she hadn't seen for three years. The young lieutenant had to tell her that her son's troopship had been diverted through the Panama Canal, and would dock at Boston instead of San Francisco.

The woman frantically made another airline reservation and rushed back to the East Coast. She made it in time—but her experience, and those of thousands of others, have led Port of Embarkation officials to warn relatives and friends against coming to the West Coast to meet their returning heroes.

"There's always a chance that ships may be diverted to other ports right up to the last minute," General Groninger said. "Then, too, there's always the possibility of sailing time changes in passenger lists, and we may not be notified about them in time."

One Los Angeles woman, who was too impatient to take the general's advice and "wait at home" for her husband when she learned his transport was shortly due at the Golden Gate, frantically rushed to San Francisco to meet him, only to discover on arrival that his ship had been diverted to San Pedro, a few miles from Los Angeles, and had been warping into dock at the very moment that she was boarding a train for northern California.

"Will my boy be home for Christmas?" is one of the questions most frequently asked. "Probably not," is often the reluctant answer. For, although army and navy officials insist "we're getting the boys home as fast as we can," statistics and shipping figures indicate that more than a million soldiers and sailors will spend another holiday in the Pacific.

Interest in Sedalia Item

Mrs. Frank M. Brown of Windsor, received a clipping from her brother, W. S. Clark of Olympia, Wash., who during the Thanksgiving season was hunting in Oregon and who saw the item in a newspaper. It referred to one of the fliers from the Sedalia Army Air Field, who was lost when the C-47 plane exploded off the coast of Oregon.

The article follows: "COOS BAY, Ore., Dec. 1—How to spend two nights and a day 150 feet up a big Douglas fir tree without dozing and slipping off was recounted here Thursday by one of twelve Army fliers whose plane crashed in the mountain wilderness 50 miles northeast of here.

"The man who enacted the life of a chipmunk was Flight Officer Dave Reed of Sedalia, Missouri, whose parachute became entangled in the tree, but his story was told by a fellow parachuter, F/O Ralph Foster of Wichita, Kas. Foster recounted the experience from a hospital cot here, where Reed also was a patient, too exhausted to be interviewed.

"To free Reed from his perch required two hours of the best efforts of those agile men of the forest, high climbers, who rigged up a block and tackle to bring Reed down Wednesday. Their plane had crashed Monday.

"The first night, Monday, Reed told me he hung from the shrouds but Tuesday morning he pulled himself up on two limbs, bracing a foot on each limb," Foster recounted.

"He told me he tied his belt around one limb and around his arm and the shroud lines around the other. He said he went to sleep just once, long enough to start slipping and then he woke up—fast. He looked like a little ant, way up there, when we first saw him."

Vanderlinden is one of 400 high-point Navy veterans whom the "Magic Carpet" is bringing back to the States aboard the U. S. S. Mellena and left Okinawa on November 26.

Upon his arrival in the states he will go to a separation center where he will receive his honorable discharge. He has been in service twenty-six months, twenty-four of which were spent overseas.

Coming Home on USS Mellena

Wayne O. Vanderlinden, MM 2/c, husband of Mrs. Genevieve Vanderlinden, of 905 East Fifth street, is on his way home and is expected to arrive in San Francisco today.

Separated from prewar Yugoslavia by the towering Karawanken Mountains, the Klagenfurt portion of Carinthia is almost equally cut off from the rest of Austria. This isolation has developed an independent, provincial spirit that leads many of the inhabitants to think of themselves not as Austrians or Yugoslavs, but as Carinthians.

CARINTHIA (OR KLAGENFURT AREA)
This is the sixth of a series of TEN articles under the general title, ORPHAN AREAS OF EUROPE. The stories have been prepared by the National Geographic Society for The Sedalia Democrat-Capital to inform readers about disputed areas in Europe whose forms of government and economic relations with neighboring countries may have to be determined by negotiations among the Allied Powers. An article will appear in the Democrat-Capital each Sunday.

By The National Geographic Society

Carinthia, one of central Europe's beauty spots, has become in recent years one of its chronic trouble spots. In the southeast corner of this southern Austrian province lies the rich Klagenfurt basin, focus of Yugoslav claims against Austria.

The basin around the city of Klagenfurt is rimmed on all sides by high pass-shy ranges of the Alps. Beautiful lakes, like scatter rugs, are spotted over the valley floor. The Daru (Drava) River flows eastward through the basin, picking up many tributaries. One of these, the Gurk, provides a narrow valley passage northward, by which railroad and highway lead into central Austria and on to Vienna. The railway from Vienna crosses the basin and tunnels the Karawanken range to reach Trieste on the Adriatic Sea. Upstream, Drau routes lead to Linz and Munich, while a downstream railroad and highway battle through mountains to Maribor in Yugoslavia.

Economic Center
Klagenfurt, with 56,700 prewar inhabitants, is the economic center, capital, and largest town in Carinthia. Villach, to the west, ranks second with 25,700 persons. These towns and regions north and west of them are predominantly German, but areas to the south and east have a Slavic majority. Hence the rival claims. Since to have a border dispute there must be a border, the Klagenfurt basin did not become an issue until 1918 when Yugoslavia was formed. The north boundary of the new country ran along the towering ramparts of the Karawanken mountains, a few miles south of Klagenfurt. Previously Austria-Hungary had controlled Slavic lands far to the south of that border.

For this reason the "orphan area" around Klagenfurt is still a child compared to many European trouble spots. As a mere babe in arms, after World War I, it had the task of selecting a guardian. By plebiscite the inhabitants voted to remain with Austria rather than align themselves with the new Yugoslav state.

Covers Two Zones
The plebiscite, administered by the League of Nations, was organized to cover two zones. Zone One was the larger area immediately bordering the Yugoslav boundary, where 60 to 70 per cent of the people were Slavs. The smaller Zone Two took in the town of Klagenfurt and a strip east and west. In October, 1920, Zone One voted 22,000 to 15,000, to stay with the Republic of Austria. This result made unnecessary a plebiscite in Zone Two, as it was now surrounded by Austrian territory. A third sector, east of Zone One, was awarded to Yugoslavia without plebiscite.

This plebiscite indicated that factors other than nationality may enter into the settling of boundary disputes. Some observers believe that the Slavs in Carinthia who voted for Austria were guided by the fear that an international boundary line might be drawn between their farms and Klagenfurt, their logical marketplace.

Two and one-half miles west of Klagenfurt lies finger-shaped Worther See, a lake over 10 miles long and up to a mile wide, thronged in peacetime summers by vacationing Viennese. Excursion boats piled between resorts. Though nearly 1,450 feet above sea level, this inland Riviera has the warmest Alpine water in Europe, thanks partly to submerged warm springs. Gently shelving shores make good swimming beaches. Near-by Ossiacher See and Millstätter See, nearly as large, were less popular.

Scenic Drives
Scenic drives through the mountains started at Klagenfurt, but the town itself did not reflect the resort character of its surroundings. Prewar factories turned out textiles, electrical products, tools, machinery, automobiles and motorcycles. Downtown buildings are unexceptional, though several have been important in Carinthia's long and proud provisional history. A cathedral reflected the province's Roman Catholicism.

Between the wars a "brotherhood" festival was celebrated by German and Slav alike, and the wood cutter's all-male dance was performed in Klagenfurt streets. On the post office wall a tablet gives credit to one Emmanuel Hermann, native of Klagenfurt, for inventing the post card. In 1899 he may have penned for the first time: "Having a wonderful time, wish you were here!"

Fruitful Valley
The valleys around Klagenfurt, fertile and highly cultivated, produce cereals, grapes, and other fruits. Meadows intersperse the tilled sections. Iron, lead, zinc, and magnesite (magnesium carbonate) are mined in Carinthia.

Yugoslav claims in southern Austria since V-E day have been reported as including not only the Klagenfurt basin, but also all Carinthia and even parts of the adjoining province of Styria—including Graz, its Capital and Austria's second largest city. This entire territory is a picture-book land of castles on mountain crags, monasteries in hidden valleys, and villages where local folk gather for annual festivals in colorful costumes. The majority of the population is clustered in small basins or valleys near tillable land. The Province of Carinthia is not quite twice as large as Delaware. About one-tenth of its area lies within the Klagenfurt basin.

Out of Service
W. F. Decker, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Decker, of Liberty, Mo., formerly of Sedalia, has received his honorable discharge after three years of service, all spent in the states, and has arrived home. He has joined his wife and daughter, Judy Ann, and will return to his former job at the Kansas City Car company in North Kansas City soon.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 12.—(P)—It was an expensive drink for Sailor Ambrose Williams of Kansas City yesterday. He told police he cashed a $50 bill to buy a drink, putting the change in his wallet. When he felt for the wallet later, it was gone. He said it contained $2,300.

Esteppe Beats Steele Using Fight Tactics
Wright Wins Over 'Hill Billy' Esteppe; Parker Also Wins

Marshall Esteppe, Sturgeon, Mo., is satisfied, satisfied that he met and defeated Jack Steele, Centerville, Ia., in wrestling on the card of Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion, Tuesday night. Esteppe "burned up" because of a bad decision last week was rewarded with a rematch and victory.

Steele won the first fall in 10 minutes and 25 seconds using a double toe hold, applied in such a manner that Esteppe gave up the first fall. Coming back in the second fall period Steele began to rough Esteppe up rather badly to which the Sturgeon retaliated by getting just as rough. He came through with a series of drop kicks, then bounced off the ropes, feet in the air and caught Steele mid-section, covered him with a body smother and won in six minutes and 45 seconds.

Esteppe in winning the third fall nearly lost it when he picked Steele up by the feet and started swinging him in a circle. Both became dizzy, but Steele came out enough to slug Esteppe and nearly put the Missourian out. Esteppe however, came around, picked Steele up, put him on his shoulders and used the airplane spin, then body smother for the win in five minutes and 37 seconds.

"Rube" Wright, Los Angeles, California, beat Elmer "Hill Billy" Esteppe, Little Rock, Ark., two falls straight. The 350 pound Esteppe couldn't take the knocking around Wright gave him. Wright knocked the big man off his feet several times, body smothered him for the first fall in 14 minutes. The second was won when he threw Esteppe into the ropes, bent over and Esteppe went tumbling across the canvass on his back, but did not recover until after the body smother had been applied and the fall went to Wright in two minutes and 55 seconds.

Jimmy Parker, St. Joseph, won over Danny Fenelon, Dubuque, Ia., in sixteen minutes and 55 seconds. Parker and Fenelon wrestled and fought around the ring until the St. Joseph lad got the double toe hold and Fenelon gave up.

Next Tuesday "Big Ben" Morgan, meets "Rube" Wright, in the main event, with Marshall Esteppe clashing with Ace Abbott, Dallas, Tex., in the semi-windup with the opening event being between Jimmy Parker and Jack Steele.

'Hap' Chandler To Decide on Night Baseball
MacPhail Says Night Baseball Has Gone Far 'Out-of-Bounds'

By Charles Dunkley

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—(P)—Albert B. "Happy" Chandler today will make his first major decision as commissioner of baseball since his election last April as the successor to the late Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

Chandler, in presiding over his first joint session with the American and National league club owners, will cast the deciding ballot on the number of night games the clubs will be allowed to play next season. The leagues will vote as separate units, with Chandler casting the third ballot.

The joint session will wind up the annual winter meeting of the leagues which also will decide upon the retention or elimination of the bonus system and formally adopt the baseball foundation for promotion of the game.

The night baseball question stalled the major leaguers yesterday. Larry MacPhail, president of the New York Yankees, who installed night baseball in the big leagues when he was in charge at Cincinnati and later at Brooklyn, believes that night baseball has gone out of bounds and should be put back in its place. When MacPhail started the novelty at Cincinnati, the limit was seven games. He still believes seven games should be the maximum.

However, the two St. Louis clubs—the Cardinals and Browns—and the Washington Senators will oppose the seven game restriction because of their success with night baseball last season. The Cardinals played 40 games under the lights in 1945; the Browns 39, and Washington 33.

Reports indicated that the majority of sentiment in each league is for seven games and no more.

The refusal yesterday of the American and National leagues to accept the Pacific Coast league as a third major circuit was no rebuff to Clarence Rowland, Pacific Coast league president.

"We will be back, and not with our hat in our hand," Rowland commented today. "No group of men can block the wheels of progress. The millions of people in California, Washington and Oregon want better than minor league baseball and we shall demand that their rights be recognized."

In turning down the Pacific Coast appeal, President Will Hargrave of the American league, and Ford Frick, National league president, said that the major league club owners and officials recognized the Pacific Coast league as "potential major league territory," and offered the coast league the services, if desired, of a cooperating committee to study the problem.

College Grid Boom Expected in 1946

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(P)—With college football due to boom next year as numerous schools resume their war-interrupted schedules, the scramble is on for a dozen or more coaching jobs, some of them paying in the handsome neighborhood of $15,000 a year.

Outstanding among the vacancies are those at the universities of California, Mississippi, Kentucky, Arkansas and Oklahoma—all of them powers in their sectors—and at such other gridiron citadels as Syracuse, Carnegie Tech, Fordham and Navy. In addition, many smaller schools are in the market for new mentors.

The plum of the lot, a national survey shows, probably is in California, where L. T. "Buck" Shaw is resigning to coach the San Francisco club in the All-America conference. Among those prominently mentioned for the post, which is believed to pay between $10,000 and $15,000, are Charles Erb, who quarterbacked the undefeated Golden Bear eleven of 1921-23; Frank Wickhorst, who returned from Annapolis to coach the California line, and Orin E. Hollingbery, former Washington State College coach.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—(P)—In spite of prexy pants Rowland's tongue-in-cheek emphatic statements, the Pacific Coast leaguers feel they've made considerable progress toward what they're after. . . . Even before yesterday's turn-down of the loop's major league bid, Rowland was hinting that it merely was laying the groundwork for a more serious effort in a few years after the clubs are able to build ball parks.

On the other hand there's Deacon Branch Rickey's comment: "That's one of the most interesting things about this meeting—the study of the evils of prosperity. . . . It isn't true that there hasn't been a big deal since the start of the meetings. The Palmer House, the hotel they're being held in, was sold Monday—for about $20,000,000."

Quote, Unquote
Leo Dykes (White Sox) — "There isn't a player in the American league who could help me—I might as well say that because I'm not going to get anybody."

Leo Durocher (Dodgers) — "I'd like to own the Phillies' franchise this year. Ben Chapman can sit back and just claim and claim players who go on the waiver list. He can get the second-best pitching staff in the league for $7,500 apiece."

Potted Palm Pickups
While some of the ball clubs are getting discouraged about trading possibilities, the Boston Red Sox still are in there pitching offers—thereby causing considerable discomfort to Ted McGrew, who has to pack 210 pounds around as liaison man. . . . One of yesterday's hottest reports was that the Pittsburgh Pirates have bought Jimmy Brown from the St. Louis Cards, but the deal will not be announced until after Jan. first.

Cleaning the Cuff
Besides paying Dan Topping $100,000 to jump the National football league, the all-America conference has agreed to let Topplings Yankees have their pick of one player from each other team except for a top three the clubs set aside. . . . Big question here is whether the new Big Ten eligibility ruling will bar George Mikkan, the tall De Paul basketball star. . . . His school adheres to conference rules, although the cagers play only two Big Ten teams, one of which has said it would rather have him in there.

Baseball Players Trades or Sales

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—(P)—Jim Bagby, Cleveland's temperamental right-handed pitcher, was traded by the Cleveland Indians to the Boston Red Sox today, thereby returning to the leadership of Manager Joe Cronin, with whom he was "a feud" when he was last with Boston.

In return for the 29-year old son of a one-time big league pitcher, the Red Sox gave the Tribe Vic Johnson, tall, frail left-hand curveballer, and an estimated $5,000 in cash, as the ivory market at baseball's winter meetings finally showed signs of life.

Before this deal, the only two big league transactions of the two-weeks major and minor conclaves, saw the Philadelphia Phillies buy first-baseman Frank (Buck) McCormick from the Cincinnati Reds and right-hand pitcher Johnny Humphries from the Chicago White Sox.
